

ONE DIES AND SEVERAL INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hansen, of San Diego avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Barger and daughter, Jeanette, of 1069 Brunswick street, left Daly City at 8 o'clock last Saturday night for a motor ride down the peninsula, and upon returning home at 10 o'clock, met with an accident at Tanforan. The exact cause of the accident is not known. Mr. Hansen was driving. It is thought the glare from headlights blinded him. The machine was completely wrecked after crashing into a large eucalyptus tree.

Mr. Barger, the most seriously injured, passed away early Sunday morning without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Barger was the beloved husband of Ethel Barger and loving father of Jeanette Barger, son of John and the late Augusta Barger, and a brother of Willis, Frank and Helen Barger, Mrs. Edith Barry, Mrs. Elsie Longman, Mrs. Esther Santoris and Mrs. May Otto. He was a native of San Francisco and was 32 years of age.

The funeral services were held last Wednesday morning in San Francisco and interment was at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Barger, who is at St. Luke's Hospital, received an injured spine and one of her legs was badly crushed and broken. Little Jeanette received minor scratches and bruises.

Mr. Hansen is still in a very critical condition with a fractured skull and his neck badly cut. Mrs. Hansen is suffering from a fractured jaw.

Lad Is Shot While Sliding at Salada

Richard Forbes, 15, son of Daniel Forbes, 101 Miguel avenue, San Francisco, is suffering from a gunshot wound in the right thigh.

Sliding down an embankment at Salada Beach with a rifle strapped to his back, the youth was shot when the trigger of the gun clipped a twig from a bush.

Companions helped Forbes to the highway and a motorist took him to the Mission Emergency Hospital. His wound is not serious, according to hospital attendants.

TRAFFIC CONCENTRATION POINT MOVES SOUTHWARD

The San Francisco peninsula's point of traffic concentration has moved southward due to the facilities provided by and the more general use of two additional highway arteries for the metropolitan—the new Bay Shore Highway unit to Burlingame and the Skyline Boulevard. This is the conclusion drawn by the Highway Bureau of the California State Automobile Association from a recent traffic count conducted by the state which showed the heaviest concentration of traffic on the Peninsula Highway at San Mateo with Colma, the former "Bottle-neck" point, running second. The count, made July 15 and 16, showed the average week-day traffic through San Mateo is now slightly more than 20,000 vehicles a day while on Sundays and holidays it runs to nearly 30,000 a day.

SAN FRANCISCO LODGE TO MEET ON AUGUST 12

The Supreme Forest, Woodman Circle, San Francisco Grove No. 6, will hold their regular meeting August 12 in Redmen's building, 240 Golden Gate avenue. Plans for the much discussed subject of the log-rolling contest to be held August 22 will be finished at this session.

PARTY ENJOY WEEK-END MOTOR TRIP TO CARL INN

Miss Olga Ottoboni, of Lawndale, and the Misses Mae Farvish, Marie Lavazola, Mildred Champion, Margarite Dearing and Jack Choice, of Alameda, enjoyed a week-end motor trip to Carl Inn where they visited with a group of friends who are vacationing there.

ENTERTAINED A GROUP OF OUT-OF-TOWN FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Richardson, of 176 Acton street, entertained a group of friends on Thursday evening of last week having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. G. Duffield, Mrs. Frank Sullivan and Mr. E. Strong.

FREE NIGHT SCHOOL FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Registration in the evening classes for adults in the Jefferson Union High School will begin on next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Opportunity will be given to form classes in Americanization, English for foreigners, bookkeeping, typewriting, stenography and auto mechanics.

As there must be a sufficient enrollment to insure the regular attendance of at least twelve in a class, Principal James Ferguson urges prospective students to enroll promptly on Tuesday evening, so that the classes may start without delay.

These classes are conducted for the benefit of adults who desire to improve their education. Men and women who want to get better positions can be helped by attending these classes.

The classes in Americanization and in English for foreigners are conducted in the interests of the foreign born men and women in our community who desire to learn English and who aspire to American citizenship.

All of these classes are free to adults. In the classes where textbooks are given out, a deposit of one dollar will be required. This will be paid back to the student when the textbooks are returned.

FIRE COMMISSIONERS HOLD MEETING

On last Monday evening the Board of Fire Commissioners held their regular monthly meeting at the City Hall, Chairman G. R. Augustien presiding.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, also reports from the fire companies were read. The number of alarms and men answering calls were reported.

Chief Kennedy announced that another piece of apparatus would be placed in commission early in September. This piece of apparatus will be placed in Co. No. 4 firehouse on Peoria street and will materially add to the protection against fire not only of the Crocker Tract and West End districts but to the entire city.

The addition of this apparatus will cause a number of changes in the department which the commissioners and Chief believe will give quicker response to alarms and at the same time no part of the city will be left unprotected.

LOCAL LADY DIES IN SACRAMENTO

Lois Elizabeth Clark, beloved wife of A. W. Clark, Jr., passed away last Sunday, August 5, at the Sutter Hospital in Sacramento after a major operation performed on July 31. Mrs. Clark was a native of Northampton, Mass., and died at the age of 32 years and eight days.

She was the daughter of the late Rev. Fletcher Cook, formerly associate rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Fletcher Cook, of Daly City, two brothers, Attorney W. Coburn Cook of Turlock and Fletcher Cook, Jr., of Daly City, and one sister, Mrs. Marion Bonner of Santa Barbara.

Funeral services were held in Turlock on last Tuesday afternoon, from Guy Funeral Chapel. Incineration and interment in the family niche was at Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

DALY CITY PARTY RETURNS FROM PLEASANT TRIP

Mrs. R. Kramer, of 168 Hillcrest drive, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Feiber, and brothers, have been motoring over the Mt. St. Helena, has returned home. The party reports a delightful time passed in hunting deer, fishing, swimming and other outdoor sports. They stopped at camps at Blue Lake, Clear Lake, Eel River and other places.

DALY CITY MOTORISTS ATTEND PINEHURST PICNIC

A group of Daly City friends motored to Pinehurst last Sunday and attended the Upholsterers' picnic. Those who enjoyed the outing were Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKee and son Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ross and daughters Dorothy and Alice, Mrs. Julia Eichele, Mr. and Mrs. E. Taylor and son Arthur, Miss Edith Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Taylor.

The Weather Bureau was established 37 years ago, but so far it hasn't improved the weather an awful lot.

A Storm Brewing

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS ON MONDAY MORNING

Everything is in readiness at the high school for the opening of the new term on Monday morning, August 13. Registration of pupils began today and will be completed by noon on Monday.

Principal James Ferguson urges every pupil to register promptly for the reason that those who enter late will find it difficult to make up the back work. He says that a large percentage of failures in high school is due to late entering. Very few pupils are able to make up the back work, and consequently they can never make passing grades. The lessons of the first days of the term are most important, for unless they are thoroughly learned it is impossible to learn the later lessons.

Textbooks will be given out and lessons assigned on Monday, the first day of the term. Regular recitations will be held on Tuesday, and only those pupils who are present on Monday will be prepared. Late comers will be at a great disadvantage.

All the members of last year's faculty will return with the exception of Miss Helen Reveal, resigned. Louis Pedley will fill the vacancy. Principal Ferguson announces that Mr. Pedley comes with the highest recommendations both as to training and successful experience. For the past six years he has taught stenography and other commercial branches in the Calceico high school. He was re-elected for this coming year but asked to be released to join the faculty of Jefferson Union High School. For the first time since the organization of the local high school, every member of the faculty will reside in the Jefferson Union high school district. This will make it more convenient for the teachers to get in touch with community interests, and will enable them to render service which will be helpful to the community in general. Besides, it will make it possible for the parents and teachers to get in closer touch regarding the problems and interests of the pupils.

STATE THEATRE TO SHOW SOME SPLENDID PICTURES

The State Theatre has booked some unusually attractive pictures for the coming week, beginning this Saturday with Hoot Gibson in "A Trick of Hearts," and the popular juvenile entertainers.

On Sunday, August 12, there will be two features, Richard Dix in "Easy Come, Easy Go," and Lya De Putti in "Midnight Rose."

On Monday and Tuesday, August 13 and 14, the State will present the popular Norma Talmadge in "The Dove," one of this clever star's most popular pictures.

On next Wednesday and Thursday, August 15 and 16, that great actor, Lon Chaney, will be seen in "Laugh Clown Laugh." This is said to be one of Chaney's best pictures.

The dainty Laura La Plante will appear in "Silk Stockings" on Friday, August 17. Eddie's Adversity will be an added attraction.

RADIO THIEF CONVICTED IN SAN FRANCISCO

Harry Pollack was convicted in San Francisco last week of burglary after being caught in San Francisco peddling stolen goods. Chief Doyle was notified of his arrest and upon investigation was found to be the man who was wanted here for trying to enter the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vernengo, of Crocker avenue, several weeks ago. Pollack's loot was mostly radios.

HOOVER NOTIFICATION CEREMONY SATURDAY

An opportunity for thousands of people of the west to participate in the making of a chapter in American history will be provided tomorrow afternoon, August 11, when the Hoover notification ceremony is held in the Stanford University stadium.

As far as is known this is the first time that any presidential nominee has afforded such an opportunity to the public as that which Herbert Hoover has arranged in obtaining the stadium for this purpose. The stadium will have a capacity of approximately 100,000 so that those in charge of the program have felt safe in saying that the accommodations for the event will be practically unlimited.

Batteries of loud speakers are to be provided so that the voices of those taking part in the program will be plainly heard in all parts of the great arena. In addition to this, arrangements have been completed for a nation-wide radio hook-up which will enable an unseen audience extending from coast to coast and estimated at upwards of 30,000,000 to listen in on the program.

Under the blue sky of the Santa Clara Valley, backed by the sun-kissed hills of the Coast Range, the spectacle promises to offer all of the thrill and color of a Big Game with the added dramatic influence that the history-making character of the occasion will provide.

There will be music, stunts and all of the entertainment that precedes a Big Game. But, the ceremony itself will be brief and impressively simple. Governor C. C. Young will make the address of welcome introducing Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee, who in turn in a brief address will advise Herbert Hoover of his nomination as the Presidential standard bearer of the Republican party. In response, Hoover will enunciate the principles of his campaign giving expression to the long awaited message that promises to become the handbook of his party in the great fight to be waged before the November election.

LOCAL YOUNGSTER IS GIVEN BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Stanley Nylund, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Nylund, of 333 Vista Grande avenue, celebrated his third birthday at his parents' home on last Wednesday.

The dining room and table were prettily decorated in pink paper streamers with little baskets to match and a huge birthday cake with three tiny candles was the center of attraction for the children. After the playing of games and a general good time the little guests were invited into the dining room where they did justice to the many good things prepared by the hostess.

Stanley received many lovely gifts from his friends and relatives.

Those present were Jerry Jones, Shirley Jones, Freddie Kirchubel, Bert Kirchubel, Frank Rivers, Virginia Rivers, Babe Rivers, Evelyn Hammer, Dorothy Hammer, Audra Teal, Curtistine Teal, Ruby McGlumphy, Raymond Nylund, Anna Marie Nylund, Mrs. Kirchubel, Mrs. McGlumphy, Mrs. Teal, Mrs. Rivers.

WINCHESTER, N. Y., WOMAN VISITS SISTER IN DALY CITY

Mr. and Mrs. John Sheridan and son, Bobbie, of Winchester, New York, paid his sister, Mrs. E. Kirchhoff, of Bellevue avenue, a surprise visit. While here Mrs. Kirchhoff and her guests spent several days at Yosemite.

SOME ODDS AND ENDS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

His arms cut off in a railroad accident when a child, Tommy McAuliffe, one-time caddy for Walter Hagen, has developed into a golf wizard and can match his skill against some of the foremost two-fisted golfers. Clenching the club between his cheek, shoulder and neck, McAuliffe drove straight and sure for distances averaging from 120 to 150 yards. He unfailingly "breaks" a hundred and has made the rounds in as low a score as 90. On the links McAuliffe plays with ease and facility and is the envy of many a player.

According to action taken by the San Francisco board of supervisors hanger space at Mills airport has been leased to the Union Air Lines. Monday the board confirmed the contract and now planes of the company are enroute from Los Angeles to make "nests" in their northern "coop." Abandonment of Mills field by several independent planes has allowed space for the new leases.

Erection of a new postoffice on Primrose road between Chapin and Burlingame avenues, Burlingame, is to be under way immediately under a contract awarded by postal authorities at Washington to George Romani, San Francisco, according to official notice received by Postmaster Joseph Beard.

The skeleton of a man who apparently died a century or more ago was unearthed by workmen on Cypress avenue, San Carlos, recently. The skeleton was perfectly preserved and was taken in charge by Coroner J. C. McGovern, who will send it to the University of California.

Robert Thomas, seven-year old son of Mrs. R. L. Thomas, Lomita Park, was treated at a hospital for a dog bite Sunday. Mrs. Thomas told officials the lad was playing with a neighbor's dog when bitten. The wound was cauterized and he was permitted to go home.

Roads in Yosemite Valley are being kept in the best possible condition for fall travel. Glacier Point road from Chinquapin has been graded, and is in good condition. Grading has been done on the road between Alder Creek to Wawona, and this week crews are working between Wawona and the Mariposa Big Trees. Most of the roads to Yosemite are becoming a little dusty.

Prohibition agents raided the home of Mrs. Pauline Chico, 45, of Oakland, mother of seven children, and seized 300 gallons of mash and a large quantity of moonshine liquor. Mrs. Chico, according to the officers knocked down a woman undercover agent and threatened to kill her children and commit suicide before she was arrested.

Motorists are warned that high speeds on the Dublin Canyon highway are likely to mean arrest by the Southern Alameda county traffic squad. During the last few weeks scores of motorists have been arrested and cited to appear in justice courts, all of them for 50 to 60 miles speeds.

Alexander Adler, 250 Judson avenue, San Francisco, driving west on Fifth avenue, and Robert Boyle, 49 B street, San Francisco, collided at the intersection of Fifth avenue and B street Sunday. No one was injured.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, once the premier buffoon of motion pictures, made love to other women and treated her with extreme cruelty, Doris Deane Arbuckle, former screen actress, charged in her suit for divorce filed this week.

Henry A. Maas, alleging desertion, was granted an interlocutory divorce decree from Mrs. Karoline Maas in the Superior Court at Redwood City. The decree was written by Judge George H. Buck.

A quarrel between two partners in a restaurant in San Francisco resulted in the serious stabbing Monday of Ysrael Goshia, 32, and the arrest of Bernard Olmos, 28, for assault with intent to murder.

DALY CITY M. E. CHURCH

The pastor will preach his second sermon in an interesting series on Great Characters of the Bible. "The Man of Moods" will be the pastor's subject for Sunday evening.

A writer advises: "To acquire a voice of authority, saturate yourself with your subject." They generally do when the subject is "Booze."

GAY BARBECUE ENDS IN DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

Death and sickness were the aftermath of a gay barbecue party and outing at the popular Emerald Lake Country Club last Saturday night. Mrs. Zelia Arendt, 2419 Durant avenue, Berkeley, is dead, and many prominent people in Redwood City are ill, the cause being assigned to the barbecue.

Mrs. Arendt was visiting with friends at Emerald Lake over the week end and attended the barbecue Saturday night. Sunday she was taken seriously ill and died Monday morning in agony. A post mortem hurriedly performed on orders from Coroner J. C. McGovern disclosed that she had apparently died from acute indigestion and her friends attributed this condition to food eaten at the barbecue.

In addition to Mrs. Arendt those who became ill after the barbecue, but are now recovering, included Supervisor and Mrs. John W. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kellogg, John Layne and several others of prominence in the county seat.

DALY CITY MAN PASSED AWAY LAST SUNDAY

W. J. Reed, of 33 Shakespeare street, passed away last Sunday. Mr. Reed was the beloved husband of Frederica Reed and loving father of Rosemary and Wardlaw Reed, Mrs. George McNally and Mrs. A. Smith. Funeral services were held last Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co. of 6154 Mission street. Interment was at Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

Auto Smash Injures San Mateo Youth

George Lee, 241 Warren road, San Mateo, is in a critical condition at the Mission Emergency hospital, San Francisco, as a result of an automobile accident Saturday morning at Daly City when he received serious injuries. Lee is a student of the San Mateo high school and well known in San Mateo and Burlingame.

The San Mateo boy was riding a motorcycle from San Mateo to San Francisco and at Daly City was struck by a car driven by Joe Altieri of San Francisco, according to Daly City police reports. He was thrown to the pavement. Passing motorists rushed him to the Mission Emergency hospital, where his condition was pronounced as critical.

He received a compound fracture of the ankle and other internal injuries. An operation was immediately performed by the physicians at the hospital.

Altieri was not held on any charges by the Daly City police. However, it is believed that charges will be preferred against him.

POLICE TELEPHONE NUMBER IS NOW DELAWARE 2233

The police telephone number has been changed from Randolph 55 to Delaware 2233. Anyone not knowing this number and wishing to call the police or fire department only have to ask the operator for the Daly City Police or Fire Department and they will be connected up with Delaware 2233.

RETURNS FROM LENGTHY VISIT IN LOS ANGELES

Mrs. A. Stinson, mother of Mrs. E. L. Scott, of Parkview avenue, returned home last week after visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. Dwyer in Los Angeles for the past three months. Last Tuesday Mrs. Dwyer arrived here from Los Angeles by motor and will spend about ten days visiting with her mother and sister.

RETURNS FROM VISIT WITH HER PARENTS

Mrs. Eva Page and children, of San Diego avenue, returned home last Tuesday afternoon after spending the past six weeks visiting her parents in Laton. While there several social affairs were given in honor of Mrs. Page, by her old friends, who were so happy to have her with them.

MOTORED TO MONTE RIO

Mrs. R. Foppiano and Mrs. G. R. Augustien and children, Myrtle, Jessie and Charles, of Evergreen avenue, motored to Monte Rio and Guerneville last Friday and visited with Mrs. Mal Tacchi, who was spending her vacation there.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES HANDS

The Palo Alto News (Mayfield) owned and published by Stella E. Ely, was sold, last week, to David H. Moore of Menlo Park. Mr. Moore is a trained newspaper man of many years' experience and has been advertising manager of the San Mateo Daily Times for the past two years. Previous to that he held a like position with the Burlingame Advance-Star and has also served as peninsula correspondent for the San Francisco Chronicle and the Daily Herald during its existence several years ago. Mr. Moore will handle the newspaper only and Miss Ely will continue with the job printing department as heretofore under the name of News Print Shop.

CANDIDATE'S MERITS IMPRESSED ON VOTER

A majority of the voters in San Mateo county are paying heavy sums in tax money on their homes. It is well for these voters to consider how much it means to have the right man on the job in the state legislature.

Many thousand bills are introduced each session which affect the welfare and prosperity of every citizen. Many of these bills, if enacted into law, would add heavy burdens of taxation to the taxpayer, and indirectly to every purchaser of homes or commodities. Many of these bills would hamper and harass our citizens in their daily pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.

Our representative in the Assembly must study and understand the needs and problems of San Mateo county, and must be a man of business experience and with varied contacts. He must also have the courage of his convictions and backbone enough to stand and fight for the interests of the people he represents.

Assemblyman Parkman has taken special interest in educational affairs. One of the outstanding things of the many that have been accomplished through his efforts is the law that makes it possible, through special training and assistance, to aid children having defective speech. There are more than 250,000 of these little ones in the state having noticeable speech defects who by a wonderful piece of constructive legislation it is now possible to help. The defective speech of these little children is corrected by proper care and training and they are given the same chance in life as those more fortunately favored.

The personality and ability of Assemblyman Parkman was recognized by the administration in his appointment on the many important legislative committees, such as Ways and Means, which handles the budget and finances of the state, the committee of Revenue and Taxation, Commerce and Navigation, a committee of tremendous importance to our county Banking, Public Health and Quarantine, Insurance, Oil Industries and Direct Legislation. Through his efforts several bills, which would have been detrimental to the interest of the taxpayers, were defeated.

(Adv.) When a candidate takes the stump he sometimes finds himself up a tree.

ROAD DEVELOPMENT

Twenty years ago a good rock road for wagon and horse travel was considered the limit of improvement for this method of transportation. Today the bare rock road is fast passing into history as a suitable surface for modern traffic.

Pavements have been laid on tens of thousands of miles of rural highways. Where heavy state highways are not warranted, old gravel and macadam road beds are being surfaced with a two or three inch water proof coating of asphaltic concrete. This utilizes the well compacted old road as a base for an economical and efficient method of hard surfacing.

Where even this second type is not warranted, road oil is today being placed on thousands of miles of country roads. It has been found that this method of treatment again preserves the road base by preventing the blowing away in dust of tons of road surfacing, which, in addition to damaging the road, buries the neighboring countryside in a coating of dirt which ruins thousands of dollars worth of crops.

And so the road improvements continue. Wider highways are superseding the narrower pavements and dust-proof highways are superseding the dust nuisances of a few years ago.

HARRASSING HUMAN FREEDOM DANGEROUS

Addresses presented at the International Association Chiefs of Police Convention at Colorado Springs, recently, contained advice which, if heeded, will help prevent crime and improve the moral standards and safety practices of the nation.

Carlton Simon, M. D., traced the theory of crime, its increase after wars which demoralized nations and destroy large numbers of virile and courageous members of the human race, leaving the residue to carry on. He said in part:

"We can limit and harass human freedom to such an extent that the normally balanced individual feels that he is oppressed without reason and will seek unlawful means of expressing his personality. This is the futility of those social crusades which would mold public opinion and have inspired what are termed 'blue laws.' These have usually worked the other way, to defeat their own purpose, creating a taste for the forbidden and leading to a perversion of freedom and unbridled licentiousness."

Mr. Simon states a great truth when he says that human freedom can be limited and harassed to such an extent that the individual will seek unlawful means of expressing his personality.

ELECTRIC GROWTH

During 1927 great progress was made in extending the use of electricity. The number of customers served increased by 1,725,000, or 8 per cent, and 1,200,000 of them were home users. So rapid has been the extension of facilities into smaller communities that at the present time 62 per cent of the homes in this country have electric service and if farms are excluded 80 per cent.

The increase in the use of electricity throughout the United States has far exceeded the increase in population. Since 1912 the latter has risen 23 per cent, while in the corresponding period the amount of electricity generated for public consumption has gained 486 per cent and the number of customers 420 per cent. In factory usage we lead the world, the degree of electrification averaging 73 per cent, and in some types of factories reaching 100 per cent.

Nineteen twenty-seven also saw a great expansion in the use of electricity on farms, and it can be forecast that in the future this service will become general. It has passed out of the theoretical stage and is a proven success.

The foregoing statistics were given in a recent address by Paul S. Clapp, manager of the National Electric Light Association.

A New Car.. A New Car Style.. A New Zenith
of Low Priced Car-Luxury and Performance

New slender profile chromium-plated radiator.—Long, low bodies.—Generous room for 2 to 5 passengers, according to body model.—Luxurious deep upholstery and appointment detail.—New "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, for use with any gasoline.—Smooth speed up to 60 and more miles an hour.—Chrysler light-action internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes—no other car of this price possesses this feature.

With the new Plymouth, Chrysler is the first to give, at so low a price, the advantages of performance, riding ease, dependability and full adult size which characterize fine cars of higher price.

It is so revolutionary an advance over other low priced cars, it is such conclusive evidence that the past year's strides in the science of manufacturing have multiplied the purchasing power of the motor car dollar, that you will surely want to see it and drive it.

A Plymouth ride is the best demonstration of the ease with which it leaps from 5 to 60 and more miles per hour—the quiet of its power and the smoothness of its flight. You yourself must put your foot to the light-action internal hydraulic 4-wheel brakes to know the confidence of the fastest and safest deceleration you have ever experienced.

And above all, you must see its beautiful lines and finish, and stretch at ease in its deep-upholstered, full adult-size bodies, to comprehend how completely the Plymouth surpasses cars heretofore sold under $1000.

Please see and ride in the Plymouth. We believe you will discover there has never been a car anywhere near its price that can approach the Plymouth for power, pick-up, smoothness, easy handling, safety, quietness and roominess—nor that can equal it in beauty and style.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

Rousing the footman, Thorpe examined the unoccupied rooms carefully and found nothing to alarm him. At any moment he expected to come upon the vigilant Yeatman, whose absence was probably of a nature to be accounted for. Soon the business of the household began.

It was Payson Grant who had the most vivid shock. He awoke at nine, the better for a deep sleep. Those late hours, he thought, played the deuce with him. Hereafter he would retire reasonably early.

He was making new resolutions with all the reckless abandon of an insincere man, when he perceived a folded piece of paper just inside his door. Idly he stooped down and picked it up. He knew in a moment that angular and unmistakable writing. Few knew so well as he the signature whose forgeries had helped to send Sutton to Sing Sing. Grant sank into a low chair and read the message:

"Do not think, because I have so far kept out of sight, that I am out of reach. I am nearer than you imagine. There are bad days coming for you."

F. W. S.

Payson Grant was oppressed with a sense of physical fear that overpowered any emotion he had before experienced. He had guarded himself with the utmost care and yet Sutton must have been within a few feet of him as he slept. But for the bolts of fine steel securing the door he would have been killed. Even now the cunning criminal would devise just such a plan, hoping to get his man as he rushed out to summon help.

The other door in the room led to a dressing-room beyond which was Natica's suite. Perhaps, even now, Sutton was crouching there ready for vengeance.

He took up the telephone and spoke with Thorpe.

"Send Mr. Yeatman here immediately," he commanded. He had been a fool not to tell the detective about Frank Sutton. What was the guarding of the jewels of his guests compared with his own safety? Yeatman's very presence would bring comfort.

"Mr. Yeatman is not in the house, sir," Thorpe answered him. "His bed has not been occupied. The grounds are being searched now."

"Why?" Grant asked. It seemed odd that before he had told Thorpe he wanted Yeatman a search had been begun.

"The two dogs were poisoned last night," Thorpe answered, "and I suspected burglars."

"Have you looked through the house thoroughly?" Grant was distracted at the news.

"I went into every room where guests were not sleeping. Nothing seemed disturbed. I don't think they got in."

"Yes, they did, you d-d fool," shouted his frightened employer. He hung up the instrument with hands that trembled. What folly for this smug butler to assume there had been no prowlers inside the house. The death of the dogs showed calculated malice. While Yeatman absented himself, a potential murderer had stalked the quiet corridors. It did not occur to Grant that the detective had been attacked. He was used to regarding the police and their allies as resolute men from whom criminals fled.

He wanted to talk to Natica, but between them was the dressing-room whose door he dared not open. He called up Thorpe again. "Come to my room at once," he commanded.

"Look here," he began, taking no notice of the butler's aloof manner. "You were wrong about thinking nobody got in last night. They did. I've proof of it. I want every place searched thoroughly." Grant pointed to the door of the dressing-room. "Just take a look in there and see if the window was forced." His fingers closed around the butt of his revolver in the dressing-gown pocket as the man flung open the door.

"Everything seems all right, sir," Thorpe reported.

"You are sure the dogs were poisoned?"

"Yes, sir," Thorpe answered, "and I'd like to get my hands on the men who did it."

"Well, keep a sharp lookout and you may get the chance. Keep everything as quiet as you can till Yeatman comes, and then send him to me."

Thorpe took his stately leave of the frightened man and met the housekeeper in the passage outside the room.

"It's a funny thing," she remarked, "but Mademoiselle Dupin has gone and her bed hasn't been slept in. All her things are gone, and I found this note on a table in the hall; it's her writing."

Natica was surprised at her husband's visit. She was uneasy when she heard of Yeatman's absence, and startled when she learned of the death of the dogs. Had she taken the detective too much on trust, she wondered.

"I don't think you need be alarmed about that. He'll come back."

"That's the least of my troubles," he said gloomily. "Just read that."

"It certainly looks like Frank's writing," she exclaimed.

"It is his writing," he declared. "Could I be mistaken? He pushed it under the door while I was lying there asleep. My God! Nat, don't you see how close we've been to murder? He must have stood there in the dead of the night trying to pick the lock. I shouldn't have stood a chance. You know how strong the brute is!"

"Well, we're not murdered," she said soothingly.

"And he's not caught. Something's got to be done. What are our precautions worth if he can get in and threaten me in my own house?"

She broke off to answer the telephone. When she put it down she could see she had received disturbing news.

"What is it?" he demanded eagerly.

"I don't understand it at all," she said, frowning. "Mademoiselle Dupin has gone. Miss Brewster is sending up a note she thinks Mademoiselle wrote and left on a hall table."

"My God!" her husband cried. "More mystery. First Yeatman, and now the French woman. Odd she had between them was the dressing-room whose door he dared not open.

to go off like that. By heck, Nat, perhaps she cleared out with Yeatman. He wasn't American born."

He saw his wife turn pale. The thought horrified her. For if these two had gone it meant that they had succeeded in robbing some of Natica's guests. So humiliated did she feel that Payson Grant found himself bundled from the room.

At breakfast the talk was of politics. None had heard of the dead dogs, or were sufficiently interested in the accountant to mention him.

Anthony Trent was down. He wanted to know if Yeatman had been found, what effect Sutton's threat had had upon Grant, and if Mademoiselle Dupin's departure had caused comment. But he got no satisfaction at breakfast. There was a furtive, crafty look about his host, who had evidently steeled himself to betray a jovial heartiness which tasked his energies to enact.

Most of the ladies remained in their rooms. Few of them were slim, and the no-breakfast fad appealed to them as the logical thing. They were all charmed at receiving visits from pretty Natica Grant.

Natica went from the room of the last one of these estimable women, breathing sighs of relief. She had inspected the jewel-cases of them all, and not a piece was missing. The elopement theory was worth considering after all; Mr. Yeatman might still be guiltless of theft, no matter how careless in matters of the heart.

It was at high noon a gardener discovered Pierre Redlich. The Grants were favored with luck. The guests had gone to the Alenhurst Casino to hear the band.

When the detective had recovered from his cramp, and his bruises and scratches had been dressed, he gave a graphic description to his employer. Suspecting that strangers were in the grounds, he had crept quietly along the silent paths, only to run into several evil men. His fight had been heroic. In the end he had been beaten by numbers and thrown over the zina.

There was one tall man, a giant, who had been particularly active.

To Payson Grant's ears this could mean only Sutton. Sutton was a big man. He was doubly certain now. Yeatman begged to be allowed to snatch a few hours of sleep before he took his tasks up again.

"That's a great relief," Natica said when he had gone.

"I don't see it," Grant said crossly. "I don't believe Frank ever got in this house at all."

"I'd know his writing anywhere," her husband said stubbornly. "I tell you, Nat, I can feel him here. This thing is going to drive me crazy."

She looked at him impatiently. Man had always seemed to Natica the inferior sex.

"Don't let it make you stupid to-night when the Bixels come to dinner."

"I'm mighty glad it isn't a costume dance," he commented. "I'll swear if it were he'd manage to get in somehow. It's no good calling me down. I don't mind a fight if I've got to get into one. It's the suspense that gets me. That chateau scheme of yours begins to sound pretty good to me. I think I ought to get away for a bit of a change."

"You take it too much to heart. That letter was sent to frighten you, and you're playing his game by being so scared. He can't possibly be anywhere near us."

Under her influence Payson grew more cheerful. He envied her the courage she always showed. At luncheon none would have guessed that she had a care in the world. Natica had declared he was out of danger; insensibly he began to incline to her belief. The presence of other men heartened him, and the cocktails had brought him courage. He hoped there would be no mention of crime during the meal. Trent brought up the subject.

"I haven't noticed the dogs today," he observed. "Usually they look through the windows as we are eating."

Mr. Gimbert could not hold back his direful news.

"Some scoundrel poisoned them in the night. Looks like the work of a gang of crooks to me."

"I'm glad it's nothing so alarming," Natica said. "A careless gardener is to blame. He put poisoned beans in the moles' runs."

"Dogs don't eat beans," said old Gimbert.

"It was the poisoned moles they ate," Natica said, explaining.

Brewster loudly derided the notion of air-rales eating dead moles.

"This," said Brewster, conscious that he held the table, "is just what I have been expecting. If my worthy host and I were in the burglary business we should mark down just such a house as this."

"Nonsense," Grant exclaimed crossly. "We certainly should," Brewster retorted. "The loot is right here. Last night when I looked round the table I said, 'This place is a magnet that will attract high-grade crooks.' Killing the dogs is the first precaution. Very likely they were scared away before they could get in. Does that mean they've given us up? Not by a long shot. They imagine that we shan't expect them tonight because they failed last night. Ladies and gentlemen, tonight's the night."

"You're crazy," Grant declared rudely.

"I think it's good reasoning," Anthony Trent remarked.

"Well, I'll be there," said old Gimbert. "You can count on me. While some of these lily-fingered experts here were at grammar school, I was trailing Geronimo. Many an Apache I've killed. As for these society burglars, I'd eat 'em up."

"What can be more reassuring than that?" Grant said. He was making an effort to seem at ease. "Godfather, you're elected to patrol the main corridors tonight. You punch the clock at eight and knock off when the help gets up."

"Sure," said Gimbert. "I'll do it rather than let the ladies get nervous." He turned to Anthony Trent. "What about you, young fellow?"

"I'll watch outside," said Trent. "I've a grudge of my own against dog-poisoners."

"Fine," said Grant heartily. This program suited him. "I'll call your bluff on that."

Things were turning out very well for Anthony Trent. It would create no astonishment or suspicion now if he were to be seen prowling about the grounds. He believed, with Brewster, although he had private information which the other did not possess, that Pierre Redlich would make his raid tonight.

"This talk is making the ladies nervous," Grant declared. "If burglars come we shall be ready for them; but it's a million to one they won't come. For heaven's sake, let's talk about something else."

A Cold Day

Going through Montana recently we got into conversation with a native son of that great state. "Gets pretty cold up here in the winter, doesn't it?" we observed, with considerable originality.

"Well," replied the Montanian, "there's a statue of Old Man Winter, the pioneer cattle king, on a little hill over in Golden valley. There he stands with his hands hanging helplessly at his sides, while he gazes forever across the plains he loved. But, believe me or not, it got so blamed cold up here once last winter that the old man had to keep his hands in his pants pockets all day long."—Harry Daniel, in Thrift Mags

THE ELEPHANTS ABROAD

The elephants were working even though they were talking to each other from time to time, too.

They were in a far off land and they were doing a great deal.

These elephants worked from morning until night piling up great quantities of lumber or wood and shoving them into the water and then helping to build rafts.

This wood was sent to help make the great ships which are built, and oh, how important is the work that the elephants do in this way.

"I thank my lucky stars I am here," said one of the elephants. "Even though I work hard I enjoy it far more than I would being in a circus I am quite sure."

"I feel the same way," said another elephant, "even though I don't quite know what lucky stars are."

"If they're the things to thank for being here, I want to thank them, too."

So the elephants went on working quickly and steadily and they smiled their funny elephant smiles and they waved their trunks and laughed as they said:

"We help in the building of great ships which sail over the ocean."

"We're not just good for doing tricks, we can work, really work, and help oh, so much."

And those who were working with the elephants admired them more and more each day.

"Though I Work Hard I Enjoy It."

Their work was important and so very fine.

When morning came the elephants did not complain about getting up.

They did not beg for five minutes more of sleep, nor did they say they had no wish to work.

They got up just the time they were supposed to get up.

"If I were in a circus," said one of the elephants, "we would have to do tricks."

"Even though I live far off here I keep in touch with what is going on in the world."

"I heard some travelers and adventurers talking about circus elephants and so I know."

"I wouldn't want to do tricks and bow to people. I feel so much more sensible in being a working elephant and in doing something worth while."

"Of course, it is all very well to do tricks, but it's not my way of living an interesting life."

"Well," said another elephant, "the ones who do tricks work, too."

"They must work to keep in good form, and they must do their tricks all the time. It all depends on what one is used to doing and what one's tastes are."

And all the elephants said they thought that was so.

A Toy Girls Will Like

A doll's bureau is not difficult when fashioned in the following manner: Take four or six of the "slip in" boxes in which matches come. Either the pocket or household size may be used, according to the size of the doll. Pile the boxes lengthwise in two piles, so that the slip-in sides form two or three double tiers of drawers at the front. Then paste a piece of wall-paper or other heavy paper tightly around the whole (top, bottom and two long sides) to hold the boxes in position; paper the front of each drawer to match and sew a button on or push a thumb tack into the front of each drawer to serve as a handle.

Which Grandmother?

Betty was six, terribly proud of her age and of the fact that she was just beginning to learn to write. For fifteen minutes she had been laboriously making marks on a paper. Her mother inquired as to what she was doing.

"Writing a letter to grandmother," was the response.

"To which grandmother?" asked mother.

"Well," said Betty, "which one of them do you think can read the best?"

Beaver Chases Bug

Leon Lapham, out fishing at Andover, Maine, made a cast in one of the pools and a big white miller skipped over the surface. Something large and black glared the miller, but visions of a giant red spot were shattered when he saw a good-sized beaver following the line. Suddenly the beaver sighted the fisherman. There was a flap of the tail and instantly he was out of sight.

Convict Used Brains in Effecting Escape

Hilary K. Adair, the noted detective, said to a San Francisco criminal: "Some people claim that criminals aren't clever. Well, what do you think of this for a clever dodge?"

"A chap who was doing ten years for arson escaped one afternoon, but he still had his convict clothes on, and he couldn't loaf around and wait for night because they'd surely catch him if he did."

"Yes, it was necessary for this arson chap to make tracks through the busy prison town, and how do you think he managed it? Well, sir, he took off his striped convict suit in an alley, then he rolled his underdrawers up above the knee and his undershirt sleeves up to the shoulder, and then he tore lickety-split through the crowded Main street of that little town and out into the safe country where his friends were waiting."

"Nobody paid any attention to him, of course. They thought he was one of these runners training for a marathon or something."

Earth's Curvature

The geological survey says that in surveys of small tracts of land no account is taken of the fact that the surface of the earth is spherical. The irregularities of the surface more than make up for the curvature. True north and south lines are not parallel, but get closer and closer together as they go north or south from the equator. For large areas the curvature of the earth is apparent. In the general land office surveys the curvature shows. The blocks of a square mile are made as nearly square as possible, the error from curvature being all thrown into the northwest corner of each six-mile block.

Predatory Bird Shot

A great American osprey, habitant of the sea and sometimes called the "ocean fish hawk," was brought down near Lancaster, Ohio, recently. The big bird, the only one ever seen in Ohio and one of the very few in the United States, was shot by William Loving, who saw it in the act of carrying away a lamb. The bird measured 6 feet between wing tips.

Death to Cats of Rome

Denmark has taken to heart that maxim about an apple a day and is buying more American apples. Purchases have tripled in five years. Most barreled imports come from Virginia, but California and other states also ship the fruit. Smaller quantities are obtained from Australia, Italy and the Tyrol.

TRIBUTES TO CARRANZA

Almost unprecedented were the tributes paid to Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexico's intrepid flyer, who lost his life on the return from a good-will flight from Mexico City to Washington.

All along the route of the funeral train from New York to the border contingents of the United States Army and throngs of civilians joined in homage to the dead aviator.

Perhaps the most elaborate ceremonies attending his last journey were those held at San Antonio, where the funeral train was escorted into the city by 100 airplanes showering it with flowers. The United States Artillery fired a brigadier general's salute of 11 guns and the entire Second Division, stationed at Fort Sam Houston, turned out to do him honor. The city auditorium was filled to overflowing during the ceremonies held there, in which representatives of the Mexican government joined.

Captain Carranza had flown to Washington as an "ambassador of good will," returning the compliment which Lindbergh had paid to Mexico last December. He had been received with great acclaim in government and private circles and his flight was taken as another manifestation which have lately existed between the two governments, after several years of tension.

Emilio Carranza now sleeps in his native soil of Mexico, remembered as a dauntless knight of the air, who gave his young life in the cause of international friendship.

Guests too, like automatic hot water service

One never knows when hot water is wanted in their home. And one never knows who wants it.

On the average, there is a demand for hot water 70 times a day in the usual family of four. And this demand starts in the early morning and continues until late at night.

How inconvenient it is to meet that demand with the ordinary water heater!

But a modern Automatic Gas Water Heater keeps hot water always ready for instant use. You merely turn the hot water faucet for a cupful or gallons of steaming water.

Why don't you, too, enjoy the comfort and convenience of a modern Automatic Gas Water Heater? It is the cheapest way to heat water in the home.

airplane were employed by the globe-trotters, the great record set being chiefly due, of course, to the airplane.

The first human beings to circumnavigate the globe, the crew of Magellan's ship Victoria, were three years and nearly a month in making the journey. When Jules Verne wrote his "Around the World in Eighty Days" in 1873 it was regarded as a fantastic idea that the earth could ever be girdled in such a short time. The latest record of less than 24 days is certainly remarkable, but it is doubtful that it will stand very long.

It is not stretching the imagination too much to predict that with the development of more powerful and more efficient motors and larger planes, with means for re-fuelling in the air, a non-stop flight around the world may yet be accomplished. Already a non-stop flight of about one-fifth of the distance has been made. The goal for the near future, then, may be "around the world in eight days," instead of 80.

REAL FARM EDUCATION

Perhaps the most extensive and effective rural educational tour ever attempted was recently completed under the auspices of the North Dakota Agricultural College, which sent a special dairy-poultry train, bearing speakers and exhibits, into 87 communities of the state.

The tour lasted 34 days and was devoted to the encouragement of more efficient production, through the development of better herds and flocks along pure-bred lines. The necessity for culling poor producers among both cows and hens was stressed, and it was pointed out that satisfactory profits are possible only through the employment of advanced methods, including better breeding, good feeding, sanitation and the elimination of "boarder" animals which do not pay for their keep. The raising of all feed on the farm was also urged.

The principals advocated by these specialists lie at the very foundation of success in the dairy and poultry industries, and the methods they recommend are applicable everywhere.

In carrying on this program of farm education the North Dakota Agricultural College is performing a real service to its state, and by example is conferring benefits upon agriculture beyond its borders.

AERIAL MAIL CLERKS

Ever greater speed in mail delivery is demanded by modern business, and the rapid development of the air mail is the most recent means adopted to meet the demand. Now it is proposed that clerks shall travel in mail planes and sort the mail en route, as railway mail clerks do on trains.

Illustrating the progress in rapid transportation which has been made within the memory of men now living, it may be recalled that in 1850 it took a letter three days by train and 21 days by stage coach, 24 days in all, to travel from New York to San Francisco. Today the same journey is regularly made by airplane in 32 hours.

The presence of clerks on planes will expedite delivery of mail somewhat, as it will be delivered into post-offices at various points sorted for immediate city distribution or transfer to other carriers, thus saving the time ordinarily taken in its handling by clerks in those post-offices.

It is predicted that within a very few years a large percentage of all mail matter will be transported by airplanes.

RECORD AUTO YEAR

Careful estimates just completed by the United States Department of Commerce indicate that the world's automobile production for 1928 will be a record-breaker, with 4,838,725 cars, of which 4,000,000 will be built in the United States, 200,000 in Canada, 250,000 in England and 200,000 in France.

These are the only countries in which any extensive production is going on, the next on the list being Germany, with 91,000, followed by Italy with 55,000. Japan will build only 250 cars.

It is estimated that nearly one-half of the entire output for the year will be used as replacements, so that the net gain in the number of cars in use will be around 2,500,000.

Ten years ago people began to wonder whether the "saturation point" for automobiles would not soon be reached. Since that time the number of cars in use has increased about 300 per cent and the demand is now greater than ever. It looks as though the time when the saturation point shall be reached is still a long way off.

BUGS WITH NEW HEADS

One of the most interesting biological experiments recently noted is that of grafting the heads of one kind of bug on the bodies of another, a feat accomplished by a German scientist, as reported by the Associated Press.

It is said that when the head of a beetle was grafted on the body of a June bug it tried to burrow in refuse matter and made no effort to fly, while the reverse experiment caused a beetle with a June bug's head to try to climb a tree. When a female head was grafted on the body of a male insect of the same species, its actions became characteristic of the female, and vice versa.

Certain insects are said to be well adapted to such experiments, as they can live for a considerable time after decapitation, because their organs of breathing are distributed over their whole bodies.

Possibly some day scientists will prove the fallacy of the saying: "You must not expect old heads on young shoulders."

PAPER FROM STRAW

New methods for utilizing waste materials from the farm are attracting wide attention throughout the world, including South America, where the manufacture of paper from straw is now proposed.

A committee of Argentine capitalists are making a study of a new process and plan evolved by Senor Pomilo, an Italian scientist, and it is proposed to raise between one and two millions dollars to finance the paper-making project.

Nearer home, H. T. Herrick of the United States Department of Agriculture recently declared that a way had been found to put common mold, such as forms on canned fruit and other substances, to use in the production of gluconic acid and citric acid. He said that the possibilities of using mold formations in the manufacture of useful products were almost unlimited. The mold is a microscopic plant growth, which is easily produced on a large scale under conditions well understood by scientists.

COLMA, CALIF.

Colma News Notes

The schools of the Jefferson school district will open next Monday after eight weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Heringer and Mrs. C. Schwartz left last Monday on a motor trip to Yosemite.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dennis returned home last Monday after spending several weeks in Butte, Montana.

Mrs. H. Lorenz and family, of Mission street, returned home last Sunday after spending several weeks at the Big Basin.

Great credit is due the fire department for the good work the members are doing for Colma, it being an unincorporated town.

The painting of the L. Nava block on San Pedro avenue has been completed and adds much to the appearance of Colma.

Under the supervision of Constable Landini the fire house has been newly painted, the letters gilded, and the little firehouse is in tiptop shape.

The Colombo Lodge and Society of Colma are making extensive improvements on their building, adding new lodge rooms and an auditorium.

Miss Amada Bono, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Bono, of Hillside boulevard, is spending her vacation in Sacramento, visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vernengo and family of Crocker avenue attended a birthday dinner last Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. Besio in Colma.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Toole and Mrs. Mary Rudolph, of Washington street, left for the Russian River, where they will spend a two weeks' vacation.

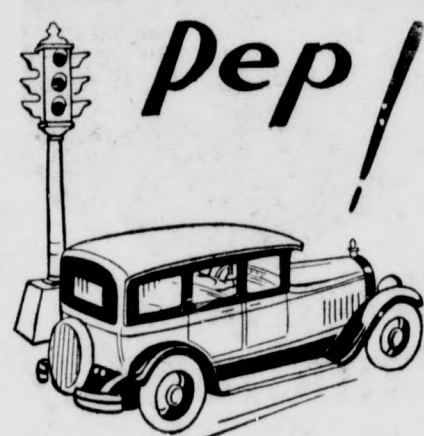

The members are planning their yearly banquet that is to be held next month, and when it comes to conquering the Colma boys sure now how.

Beatrice Batz, bookkeeper for Belli & Co., will leave this Saturday for Colfax, Wash., where she will visit her son, Ray, who is a musician there.

J. E. Shandy, Southern Pacific agent at Colma for several years, traded positions with L. A. Bradley, of Sterling City, Butte county, this state. Mr. Shandy left last Monday for his new post.

Several members of the Colma Gun Club returned home the latter part of last week from Boonville, bringing home five deer shot while there. They were on display over last week end at L. Nava Market.

The Colma Volunteer Fire Department have been very busy this week

WE PUT 'PEP' INTO IT

Just plodding along is not the way to travel these days. If the car does not keep up with the procession there is something wrong with the engine. Leave it at our auto repair shop for a complete overhauling and you will be surprised how much new pep we can put into it. If you wish we will estimate the cost in advance.

PACIFIC RADIO SHOW TO BE HELD AUG. 18-25

The 1928 Pacific Radio Show to be held in the civic auditorium, San Francisco August 18th to 25th, will be a show of radio development. This is the assertion of the show committee of the Pacific Radio Trade Association, which predicts that from the visitors' standpoint the coming exhibition will be the most fascinating display of this newest achievement of science.

From the exhibition standpoint the Radio Show is already a sell out. Practically every bit of available space has now been taken. When the doors are opened there will be a larger number of exhibitors and a greater array of exhibits than ever before has attended these annual displays.

Artistically, the show will also be more beautiful. All of the showman's art has been applied to making the exposition a thing of beauty as well as of human interest. The show committee has invested a large sum in lighting effects and carrying out an impressive decorative scheme in keeping with the beauty of line and finish of the 1928 radio receiving sets.

The feature of the show will be the entertainment programs to be put on by the eight big broadcasting stations. These programs will be presented in a model glass-enclosed radio broadcasting studio built on the stage. Between 300 and 400 radio artists will appear in this studio in connection with the continuous programs to be presented throughout the show hours. The entertainment arrangements alone are the most ambitious ever attempted and it is believed that thousands of visitors will avail themselves of this opportunity to personally meet their favorite stars of radio.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPS FOR BOYS IS BIG SUCCESS

Success of the camps for boys conducted during the present season by the Y. M. C. A. in San Mateo county was reviewed in a statement recently by officials of the organization.

The statement in part follows: The San Mateo County Y. M. C. A. can well be proud of the record it has made this year in handling boys at Camp Yu-Mi-Ci-A in the San Mateo County Memorial park. Although this is but the second season for this camp its popularity with both parents and boys has been such that the demand for places far exceeded the contemplated number to be accommodated. The camp committee figured that there would be an increase of 50 per cent when in actuality the number accommodated was double that of last year.

The total number of campers during the four periods were 281. A large number of boys who were requesting a fifth period had to be disappointed as it was found that under the present arrangement if the additional period were held the camp directors would not be able to have any vacation.

The number of boys in each camp period was limited so that leaders and camp directors and their associates might give personal attention to every boy.

The health of the camp was exceptional. The personal touch gave an opportunity for this department to handle the slightest ache or pain at its outset.

The cooking, which was handled by an expert and parents and friends of the boys, were high in their praises of the meals.

FARMERS AND FAIRS

Fair time is approaching and prospective exhibitors should be planning to make the most of their opportunities to show their best products. The real success of a fair, whether it be one embracing a state, a county, or only a local community, depends more on the number of exhibitors than upon the number of exhibits.

That a farmer can not display a great variety of superior products should not prevent him from entering at least a few. Even though a prize is not won, the effort to win is stimulating and beneficial to every exhibitor.

In these days of home demonstration agents more attention is being given to exhibits by farm women and girls, and these should be encouraged in every possible way. There are few farms which could not make a creditable exhibit of some kind, and no farm should be unrepresented in its local fair.

KEEP WHEELS ALIGNED

Front wheels on your car may be knocked out of line by driving or parking too close to a curb. According to the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association, driving a car in this condition causes unnecessary tire wear.

Mexico is now without a president-elect. Members of the Suicide Club are expected to shortly announce their aspirations to fill the vacancy.

Sacramento has organized a modern variety of "Minute Men." No campaign orators have joined, so far.

ESTABLISH UNIFORM TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

California's activity in the establishment of a uniform traffic ordinance is outstanding among the states, it was brought out at the recent national conference in Washington, called by Herbert Hoover, looking toward nation-wide traffic regulations.

The progress California has made in this step toward street and highway safety is explained by the Women's Division of the California Development Association. Through this agency a statewide safety conference was organized, the aid of all official and semi-official groups interested in safety enlisted and the backing of 277,000 club women and members of Parents and Teachers associations secured for the purpose of establishing a uniform traffic ordinance in the cities of California.

The uniform ordinance decided upon was written by the two automobile clubs of California. The ordinance was then submitted to the governing officials of California by the local committees of the safety conference of the association. The result, to date, has been the adoption of the uniform traffic ordinance by 63 cities in the state.

SAN BRUNO POSTMASTER HAS RARE OLD STAMP

A report from San Bruno stated police reserves were detailed in front of the postoffice to hold back crowds anxious to get a view of a rare Benjamin stamp which Postmaster George Hughes received from an anonymous friend. The donor of the stamp values it at $10,000 and Hughes will keep a strong guard on duty while the curio is on exhibition.

SANTA CRUZ COUNTY MOTOR REGISTRATION

Santa Cruz county's motor vehicle registration at the beginning of this year was 13,497, reports the California State Automobile Association. Of this total 11,260 were passenger cars.

Lest our readers may have forgotten it, we remind them that the issue of the campaign is the tariff.

PACK BAGGAGE PROPERLY

Placing baggage on the front of your car cuts off the air supply and causes the engine to heat, warns the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. The radiator is constructed to permit the fan to draw cold air through the core, cooling the water as it circulates through the motor block.

Storks in Denmark, one of their favorite haunts, are said to be rapidly diminishing in numbers. The mythical stork seems to be holding his own, however.

Are your Telephone customers WALKING OUT?

A lone clerk can't serve a number of eager customers all at the same time. Nor can one telephone line.

Customers at the counter often walk out if kept waiting, even though the cause is evident to them. Telephone customers, without this visible evidence, are only too likely to place their orders elsewhere if they are repeatedly discouraged by busy signals.

Complete telephone service in your place of business, including a sufficient number of central office lines, is the best assurance that your telephone customers are not "walking out".

At our business office, specialists will gladly assist you in planning complete service to meet your particular requirements.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Escape of 67 inmates of State institutions during the last month was reported a few days ago—41 from mental hospitals, 18 from homes for feeble minded and 8 from reform schools.

January 1 to June 30 of this year 1146 arrests were made for fish and game law violations and $39,319 in fines was collected. Fred G. Stevenot reported a few days ago. Last year there were only 628 arrests, and fines for the period were $22,953.

The white man leads all other Criminals by a wide margin, according to State records announced recently. Out of 40,325 arrests for law violations of all classes during the last fiscal year, 22,342 involved Caucasians. Arrests of Indians and Mexicans totaled 4,451; Ethiopians, 2,187; Malays, 500, and Mongolians, 527.

The various district offices of the division of labor in California received and investigated 2893 complaints of alleged violations of labor laws during June, 1928. States Will J. French, director of the department. Of these complaints, 2624, or 90.5 per cent, were wage claims, and 275 or 9.5 per cent were complaints of violations of the eight-hour law for women and other labor statutes. This department collected wages from delinquent employers, and began 128 criminal prosecutions for violations of the labor laws.

Californians, the old Mosaic dictum of "a life for a life," will be banished in California at the 1929 session of the Legislature. That positive forecast of the end of capital punishment was made at Sacramento a few days ago by Senator Tom West of Alameda, following a conference with State leaders. The sentiment against the death penalty in California is unmistakable, asserted the State solon, and I am convinced that members of the Legislature dare not disregard it any longer.

As the traditional month of brides June in California was a "flop." The first June under the gin marriage law saw a decrease in weddings of more than 30 per cent from the previous bridal month when marriage licenses could be obtained immediately upon application. Figures announced by the State department of public health reveal that only 4,663 couples exchanged vows in California last month. This number compares with 7,098 in June, 1927, a decrease of 2,435.

California's gasoline tax levy for the three months ending June 30 totals $8,477,292.14, a new State record, it was announced a few days ago by the State board of equalization. This is an increase of $3,124,688.10 over the corresponding quarter of 1927 and a gain of more than $1,000,000 over the first three months of the present year. The tax is based on distribution of 287,430, 747.7 gallons of gasoline, as compared with 279,331,079.2 for the same three months in 1927, an increase of 5.58 per cent.

State Controller Ray L. Riley's drive to compel payment of taxes owed the State by motor transportation companies has been practically 100 per cent successful, he announced a few days ago. Threatened with State seizure of their cars, companies owning approximately 1,000 motor vehicles have nearly all taken steps to pay their taxes, Riley said. Estimating that not more than fifty machines will have to be sold for taxes, the Controller said that by August 13 his department will have collected $750,000, representing the first installment of a $1,500,000 tax levy and including all unsecured taxes.

California counties will receive $2,242,837.71 for highway purposes in allocation of State motor vehicle fees for the first six months of 1928. At the same time Frank G. Snook, chief of the State division of motor vehicles, announced apportionment of $2,989,327.63 to the State Highway Commission. Both State and county allotments go for repair and maintenance of roads in the county apportionment made on the basis of vehicle registrations after deduction of State traffic officers' salaries. Los Angeles county was allowed $1,193,213.66, topping all others. San Francisco received $371,795.69 and Alameda county was third in the State with $196,537.51.

Cooperation of State and county governments toward the maintaining of a fund for support and training of the adult blind in their own homes instead of industrial schools, has been suggested by State officials. Earl E. Jensen, director of the department of institutions, reported to Governor C. C. Young that many of the 122 inmates in the industrial school for the adult blind at Oakland are so advanced in years that they find it difficult to make a living after they have been taught a trade. A. R. Heron, director of the department of finance, has suggested that a fund be created for the support of the blind in their own homes instead of at State institutions.

A plan for adoption of the percentage system in fixing the amount of contributions public school teachers shall make to the teachers' retirement fund is made in a letter to A. R. Heron, chairman of the State Department of Finance, from the High School Teachers' Association of Los Angeles. The letter was signed by Albert M. Shaw, chairman of the legislative committee of the association. The Los Angeles association also favors basing the amount of pension on the salary received during the five years previous to retirement.

Flyer Kills Eagle Two Miles in Sky

Banning, Calif.—Friends of Lieut. Warren Maxwell of March field told here of his thrilling battle with a lone eagle almost two miles up in the air above San Jacinto. Maxwell managed to bring his ship down with the bird entwined in his propeller and motor, although it was an emergency landing.

According to the story told by his friends, he was piloting a P T-3 training ship over Mount San Jacinto and the San Geronimo pass region in search of emergency landing fields. At an altitude of 11,937 feet, he said, he suddenly noticed an eagle flying directly into his course of flight. He tipped the plane at the greatest angle possible. The eagle was drawn in by the tremendous suction of the propeller and lodged on the motor of the plane while the pilot maneuvered it into a long glide to earth.

"I'M A SAP," SAYS NABBED ELOPER

Romance of Church Singers Comes to Grief.

Philadelphia.—"Watson said I was a sap. I am a sap." Thus ended the romance of Mrs. Edythe Whitney Watson and Reginald W. Erskine, who sang together in the Church of the Ascension choir at Rockville Centre, L. I., and eloped. They were found here by police and are to be arraigned, Erskine for violation of the Mann act, and Mrs. Watson as a material witness.

It was Erskine who admitted being the "sap." According to newspaper accounts of the elopement, Mrs. Watson's husband, Stanley, sped them on their way by inviting the "poor sap" to come inside and wait for his inamorata and by telling Erskine that "what this woman is doing to me now, after 15 years of married life, she'll do to you, but it won't take 15 years."

Mrs. Watson left behind three children. Her husband since has sued for divorce. Erskine, a bond salesman, deserted a wife who said he had left her penniless.

According to the police, Mrs. Watson, who was found behind a candy counter in a 5 and 10-cent store, took her arrest with head held high. She insisted she came alone and paid her own fare to this city, which would be sufficient to clear Erskine of the Mann act charge. She told how much they loved each other, intimated that excused everything, and said she thought matters would straighten themselves out.

Top Is Stolen From Cop's Car Near Station

Washington.—Auto thieves are growing bolder every day. In the opinion of Motorcycle Patrolman E. D. Gemeny, who parked his car almost in front of station No. 2 the other night and returned after his late trick of duty to find that some dauntless persons had carefully and completely removed the top and made away with it.

Policeman Gemeny drove to the station to report for duty from his home in Virginia, parking his car at midnight just fifty feet from the station. The next morning he was driving home hoping that it would not rain before he got there.

Brother officers said that Gemeny had bought the car not very long ago second hand and that it was not a very expensive machine. The policeman regarded the affair as a joke, they said, but next morning he was out looking for another top.

Hungry Gulls Feast on Herring Loaded Scows

Port Angel, Wash.—A great flock of seagulls attacked a tow of three scows of fresh herring with such vim and vigor that the loads of fish were lowered three inches per day before port was reached.

The tug Olympic was towing the loaded scows from the Gulf of Georgia to reduction plants of Vancouver Island. Every man was needed to attend the tug because of rough weather and the discharge of firearms at the marauding gulls did little good.

Seven herring make a meal for a gull, but their rapid digestive machinery calls for a dinner every two hours. They seemed to eat until they could not fly and then added insult to injury by roosting and riding on the scows until they became hungry again.

Mother Nearly Drowns as Child Is Born in Stream

Budapest, Hungary.—When its mother fell into the stream by accident, a baby was born in the Danube river, near here. The woman was picking up firewood along the banks and plunged headlong into the waters.

Fishermen rushed to her rescue, and when they reached her she was more dead than alive but held the newborn baby in her arms. The child lived only a few minutes, and the mother was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

BROUTHERS WAS MIGHTY HITTER

Helped Detroit Win Its First World Title.

They had 'em in the early periods of the game—hard hitting, long distance and powerful batsmen—for the home-run hitter is not entirely a product of today. Dan Broutthers, Sam Thompson, Roger Connor, Ed Delahanty, Buck Freeman, Gavvy Cravath were mighty batsmen who could hit the unlearned ball as hard as any batsman since their generation.

Broutthers was one of the three hardest hitting first sackers the game ever had. It was Big Dan, Dave Orr and Pop Anson, a trio of noble batsmen who hit .345 or better during their entire careers. Broutthers finished his career of 17 years in the big stuff with a lifetime batting average of .348. He holds a record of hitting three homers in a single game.

With the Troy club in 1879, Broutthers, who was over six feet in height and weighed 230, in running to second fell on McGlynn, the guardian of the sack. The impact and fall that followed the collision was so terrific that McGlynn died within a week from the injuries. Big Dan quit the game for two years. In 1881 the Buffalo Nationals induced him to sign a contract. During the five years with the club Broutthers won nation-wide fame because of his terrific hitting. It was Broutthers, Rowe, White and Richardson who formed the Big Four that became so famous the country over.

It was the "Big Four," with the addition of Sam Thompson, that gave the Detroit club its first pennant, also a world's championship in 1887. Broutthers was a fast man on the base lines. In eight of his playing years he scored 100 or more runs each year. His average runs for the 17 years stood .091 a game. In 15 out of the 17 years he batted .300 or better.

In 1904, at the age of forty-nine, Dan was playing first for the Poughkeepsie club of the Hudson River league. In a game against the Saugerties club he made two homers and four singles in six times up. It was estimated that one of the homers traveled 500 feet by actual measurement. Today the big slugger is one of the boys who keeps the Polo grounds in fine condition for the younger set.

Temple U. Stadium to Be Completed Sept. 1

The Temple university athletic stadium going up in Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, will be completed September 1. For the opening football game with St. Thomas college on September 29, 35,000 seats will be available. The stadium will be dedicated October 13 when Temple lines up against Western Maryland. The stadium will be bowl shaped and ultimately will accommodate 75,000 to 80,000 fans. This will give the Quaker City three big stadiums. Penn can seat over 80,000, while the municipal stadium built during the sesquicentennial also accommodates about 80,000.

"Knockout King" Chaney Credited With 101 Wins

Not so many years ago there flourished a fighter who probably had more knockouts to his credit than any other boxer in the book today. He is George Chaney of Baltimore, dubbed the "knockout king." He wore the name on his jersey, and when he ended his career he had 101 knockouts to his credit.

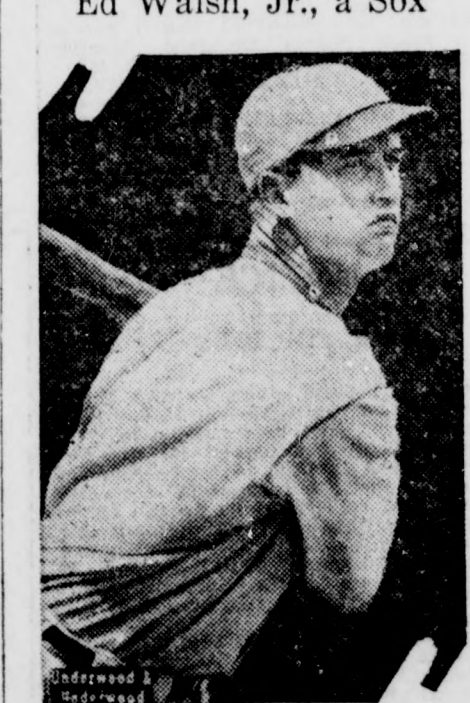

But his was a built-up reputation, to a certain extent, and his lack of genuine class was proved when, at the height of his career, he fought Champion Johnny Kilbane, and himself took a knockout powder in the third round.

Undeclared Pitcher

Winning nine consecutive games during the season and gaining the distinction of being the only undeclared college pitcher in the East was the record made by Bert Garrett, Rutgers' southpaw twirler, during his first year as a varsity moundsman.

He is a brother of Alfred (Budge) Garrett, Rutgers' football captain in 1919, and was himself a substitute halfback on the Rutgers eleven last season.

CHEESE A GOOD FOOD

In Europe cheese is part of nearly every meal and among the Swiss, one of the sturdiest people in the world, it is the principal food, the per capita consumption in that country being 27 pounds a year.

In the United States, though the consumption of cheese is not as large proportionately, its popularity is increasing each year. Particularly is this true of the Swiss cheese, which offers a great variety of tempting menus, rich in nutritive value. Only butter, oil and very fat meats have a greater caloric value than Switzerland cheese. The long experience in cheese-making has made the Swiss cheese-makers so expert in the proper curing of their product that they can tell by tapping with a small hammer the age of the cheese and even the size of the holes. The latter, called "eyes," are not a matter of guesswork, but attest the richness and flavor.

Here are a few suggestions for using this cheese and saving the long hot cooking of no more valuable food for the family:

As an appetizer or a bit of tasty lunch for an afternoon with a cup of hot (or a glass of iced) tea try:

Alpine Canapés.—Cut thin slices of bread into rounds with a cookie cutter. Cook in a little butter until a delicate brown. Cover each round with a very thin slice of Swiss cheese, spread lightly with mustard, then with finely chopped boiled ham, in the center of each place a stuffed olive cut-side up. For added appearance arrange a border of hard-cooked egg white finely chopped around the edge of the canapé. Serve these as a first course for luncheon or supper or as an accompaniment to a cup of tea.

Bacon and Cheese Sandwiches.—Cover small triangles of bread with butter and thin slices of cheese. Place under the broiler to brown lightly and serve with fresh crisp curried bacon.

Summery Dishes.

There is no main dish so appropriate for the warm weather as fresh fish. It is wholesome, easily digested and not so filling as meat. With such a variety of canned fish from which to choose, those who are not favored with fresh may always have canned fish.

Stuffed Haddock.—Pre-firm the haddock or any good-sized firm-meated fish and stuff with bread crumbs mixed with egg, butter, a bit of chopped onion or chives. Sew up the fish and serve when baked with:

Egg Sauce.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt and pepper to taste, pour on gradually one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Boil five minutes, add two eggs well beaten, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of butter, hit by bit.

Baked Bluefish.—Split the fish, place on a well-buttered sheet and cook twenty minutes in a hot oven. Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add the yolks of two eggs and when well mixed add two tablespoonfuls each of chopped onions, capers, pickles and parsley, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of vinegar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-third teaspoonful of paprika. Sprinkle the fish with salt, spread with the mixture and continue baking until the fish is well done.

Pistachio Ice Cream With Peaches.—Mix one quart of milk heated until lukewarm with one cupful of heavy cream, one and one-fourth cupfuls of sugar, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, and one and one-half junket tablets dissolved in one tablespoonful of cold water. Let stand until set, then add one tablespoonful of almond extract, one teaspoonful of vanilla and a little green coloring. Freeze and serve with halves of very ripe peaches, or canned peaches cooked in the sirup until thick.

Lemon Gelatin Salad.—Cut into fine shreds one or two apples, a bit of pineapple if at hand, two to three stalks of celery and a handful of pecan meats. Add a tablespoonful of gelatin for each salad served. Line salad plates with tender leaf lettuce and heap on the fruit and gelatin mixture, to which any good salad dressing may be added. Top with a spoonful of dressing and a dash of paprika.

Try cooking green apples with a few sliced onions, adding a little sugar and salt with enough fat to make them palatable. Serve with meat.

HIS BUSINESS BUILDER

Two men waiting on the corner for the lights to change got into a conversation.

"See that man over there? I owe my fortune to him," remarked one of them.

"Who is he?" remarked the other.

"He is a pie maker who supplies 95 per cent of the restaurants in town."

"Huh! And who are you?"

"I am the millionaire dyspepsia tablet manufacturer."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Personal Matter

Mrs. P—, who was down in the seventies, and admitted it but declined to be classed as elderly, was buying host at the local store. The young woman clerk, desiring to be helpful, spread out the contents of a box saying, innocently:

"We're selling a lot of these to old ladies."

Mrs. P— smiled. "But I want them for myself," she said gently.

WHAT THE OTHER DID

She—My first husband never swore like that when he mowed the lawn.

He—My first wife never made me mow the lawn.

No Parking

The Born Moocher

Householder—Ah. I've sold that roller and those garden tools you've come to borrow and have gone in for chickens—

Champ Borrower—Oh—er—that reminds me—we've visitors to tea and I wonder—er—could you lend me a few eggs?

An Ancient Problem

"There was no parking difficulty in grandfather's day," remarks an exchange.

Long, long, before, brother. You forget the difficulty Noah had with his ark.

CANNIBAL

He—One of my mates at college ate 26 hard boiled eggs on a bet.

She—Why, the cannibal!

All Depends

How many miles to the gal?
I drive right on with Rose,
I stop and get with Sal,
And that's the way it goes.

Wouldn't Do It Again

Judge—Have you ever been convicted before?

Defendant—Yes, I was caught bathing at a private beach once.

Judge—And since then?

Defendant—Since then I've never taken a bath.

A General Response

"Any response to our advertisement for an office boy?"

"Nine boys are in line, two elderly men and five girls."

The Wrong Arm of the Law

First Lawyer—What are you looking so sour for, Cavendish?

Second Lawyer—After I got all through getting my man acquitted on the most eloquent plea I've ever made, I find out he was really innocent.

Poor Memory

First Monk—What's Mr. Giraffe got a knot tied in his neck for?

Second Monk—That's so he'll remember the things he has to get in town today for Mrs. Giraffe.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

DENY MANY APPLICATIONS FOR BAY BRIDGE FRANCHISE

Thirty-five private applications for bridge and tube franchises for the spanning of San Francisco bay were denied by the San Francisco board of supervisors last Monday. Those who urged rejection of the applications sounded the warning that holding of the petitions on the calendar would hamper passage of the San Francisco bridge bill before congress. Included in the plans placed in the discard by the supervisors was a special financing scheme offered by Supervisor A. Gallagher under which a franchise would be granted to H. S. Henion one of the applicants. Henion, under the plan, would eventually turn the finished structure back to the city to operate. Originally there were thirty-eight applications for franchises, but three had been withdrawn.

A MOTTO OF SERVICE

During the past five years construction expenditures for the telephone industry have totaled $1,800,000. In this period service throughout the nation has been greatly improved and extended, trans-Atlantic telephony has come into being, contact has been established between our country and other countries on this continent, and television has been made a reality.

Now it is announced that the construction and expansion program for the coming five years will involve a still greater sum, estimated at two billion dollars or more. More districts will be opened up, and brought closer to world civilization; it will be still easier for us to project our voices thousands of miles away.

Such a record is a great tribute to the executive ability, economy and efficiency of the telephone industry. Its motto—to give the best possible service at the least possible cost—has been maintained unflinchingly.

SIDELIGHTS

Mutual satisfaction followed the arrest of Mrs. Lelin, 22-year-old bootlegger of Miami and Chicago, who had plied her trade for ten years without running afoul of the law. Thanking the police for seizing her car of liquor, she said: "I'm tired of it. I wish you'd get my husband, too, and make him get out of this racket."

Parades in the nude are frowned upon by the authorities of Nelson, B. ## CALIFORNIA STANDS HIGH IN BANKING

In total resources the California state banking system, with $1,851,998.23 on June 30, 1928, holds sixth place among the state banking systems of the United States, being exceeded only by the states of New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio, according to figures compiled by the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks. Due to the nationalization of the Bank of Italy and the Pacific Southwest Bank within the last two years, there has been a decrease in the total resources of state banks in California. However, this loss in resources is being rapidly overcome by the growth of state banks.

Although California ranks sixth in total resources in state banks, it ranks twenty-fourth among the states in number of state banking institutions. California has only 276 state banks, whereas Illinois has 1304, Missouri 1,254, Iowa 1,065, Pennsylvania 963, Minnesota 869 and Kansas 878. California policy does not favor the establishment of small banks. The state policy is to charter a bank only when it can start with sufficient strength to give the service the community requires. Will C. Wood, superintendent of banks, has declined to charter any bank with capital of less than $50,000. There are now 57 banks in California with a capital of less than $50,000 and none with capital of less than $25,000, whereas in the middle western state, two-thirds of the state banks have capital of less than $50,000 each. In many states, banks are chartered with capital of $10,000 each. Branch banking in California also accounts in part for relatively small number of banking institutions in California.

Superintendent Wood, commenting on the figures, declared that the conservative policy of California relative to the establishment of new banks, accounts for the extremely small number of bank failures among California state banks as compared with bank failures in middle western states. In no other state, he said, are the people's deposits safer than they are in California state banks.

MAGAZINE REVERSES STAND ON HOOVER

On July 12 a committee of leading German-Americans called upon Secretary Hoover and pledged their support. The action of the committee was given national publicity through a statement issued by the National Committee.

Among the committee which called and pledged Mr. Hoover their support after a three-day conference in New York were: George W. Angerstein, organizer of the Steuben Club of Chicago and president of The Progressive Magazine; Frederick F. Schrader, of New York City, editor of The Progressive Magazine, former secretary of National Congressional Committee and author of the first Republican text book in the campaign of 1896; Thomas C. Angerstein, president of the National Historical Society; Walter R. Miller, vice-president of the Steuben Club of Chicago; Walter H. Brandenburg, vice-president of the Board of Education of Chicago; and John J. Gorman, former member of Congress from Illinois, and attorney for the Steuben Club.

The fact that The Progressive Magazine had bitterly opposed the nomination of Mr. Hoover made the reversal of the attitude of the president and editor a subject of widespread comment among German-American groups.

In the August number of The Progressive Magazine appear articles by the president and the editor and also by Thomas C. Angerstein, president of the National Historical Society, in which these men give the results of their investigations which caused them to support Mr. Hoover's candidacy.

Inasmuch as The Progressive Magazine's stand on political issues of national importance is followed by thousands of German-Americans throughout the United States, its decision to support Mr. Hoover was a terrible shock to the Tammany Hall forces, who had confidently expected to receive at least 85 per cent of the German-American vote.

The articles in the August issue of the magazine give special emphasis to the false propaganda which has been circulated throughout the United States among German-American groups about Secretary Hoover. The articles not only explain this but give the real facts showing that Mr. Hoover's ability and experience especially fit him in the minds of the German-Americans for the great office of President because in the opinion of these people they feel that a man of great humanitarian principles with a well known record of efficiency and economy is entitled to their full measure of support for the Presidency of the United States.

REDUCTIONS IN COST OF STREET LIGHTING

Reductions are being made in the cost of street lighting in the various cities and towns served by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, according to an announcement made by the local office of the company recently.

The reductions are voluntary and are said to involve a saving in excess of $25,000 per year to the territories affected. In the San Jose Division Burlingame will receive the largest cut in rates, a reduction of $1,024.80 per year on the basis of the present number of lamps installed. Other cities in this division to receive reductions in this class of service are San Jose where there will be a saving of $871.44, Daly City $320.76, Mountain View $268.80, Los Gatos $279.12, Mayfield $274.12, San Bruno $229.32, San Mateo $216.60, South San Francisco $159.12, Hillsborough $98.04, San Carlos $84.00, Sunnyvale $75.00, Menlo Park $55.20, Colma Lighting District $225.60, Menlo Park Suburban Lighting District $110.64 and Saratoga Lighting District $92.40.

These new and reduced rate schedules have been instituted J. D. Kuster, division manager of the company, says, to encourage the better lighting of streets and highways. The lower rates will permit the installation of more lamps and provide for the increasing of candlepower where modern lighting is not now installed.

Ever Have It Happen to You?

A friend says there are two big times in the life of a man. The first time is when you catch her in your arms. The second is the time you catch her in your pockets.

Here's a Fast One Red Hot: "Did you hear the story about the pair of tights?" Ice Cold: "No. Go ahead and spring it." Red Hot: "Once upon a time there were two Scotchmen."

There's a reason why ABERDEEN satisfies.

Simply because a fellow listens to your troubles is no indication that he is interested in them.

Hard to Tell "Oh doctor, do you think the scar will show?" asked the fair young appendicitis patient.

Can't say, my dear; I'm not setting the styles this year."

Hit Hard Accident in Daly City this week. A man lost control of his car. He couldn't keep up the payments.

Yes, we sell Paints and Oils—the best.

First Tramp: "Say, Bo, what kind of cigars do you smoke?" Second Tramp: "Why, brother, ah smokes Robinson Crusoe cigars." First Tramp: "Wot kind cigars is dat?" Second Tramp: "Castaways, brother, castaways."

When you send a letter air-mail do you have to use fly-paper?

Not So Dumb Tourist (in village store): Whaddya got in the shape of automobile tires?" Saleslady: "Funeral wreaths, life preservers, invalid cushions and doughnuts."

Let us figure on the new house you are going to build.

Perfectly Killing "Really, Mrs. Rafferty, your argument with your husband last night was very amusing." "Wasn't it, though! And when he threw the ax at me I thought I'd split."
